AN INTERIM INJUNCTION.

Trouble About a Contract.

Kwan Shing Hing, a building contractor, made an application before the Puisse Judge. Mr Justice Gompertz, sitting in Original Jurisdiction this morning, for an interim injunction restraining Fung Yuk Shun from carrying out certain work contracted to be done under a building contract dated October 15, 1912, and made between Lau Ling Wei and Lung Sing Chi, in the writ referred to by the owners, and Kio Cheong, called the contractors. The plaintiff also asked that the defendant be prevented from ousting him from a verbal agreement made on October 8.

Mr Eldon Potter, instructed by Mr J. H. Gardiner, solicitor, appeared for the plaintiff.

Mr Potter asked for an interim injunction restraining the defendant from sub-letting the building contract prior to the hearing of the original motion and also from taking in any other partners. They did not wish to prevent defendant from commencing the work, but they did wish to prevent him from bringing in any outsider who might damage plaintiff's rights under the contract.

His Lordship granted an interim injunction, and decided to hear the motion on Friday next at 2 p.m.

In fixing the time, his Lordship asked if two o'clock was too early and inconvenient to the bar, and, on being informed that it was not, he observed that there was a daylight saving scheme at home and they may as well save daylight here.

The applicant was required to deposit $500 in court as security.

SOMETHING FOR MOTHERS.

THIS is the season of the year when mothers feel very much concerned over the frequent colds contracted by their children, and have abundant reason for it. A Natural Remedy

Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out.

Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT

is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.

It may be safely taken at any time by young or old.

It is very effective in the early stage of Diarrhoea by removing the irritating cause.

Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

GERMANY OF TO-DAY.

Powerful forces, moral and political as well as economic, were making for the unification of Germany under Prussia's leadership before Bismarck, with climbing ambition, strode on to the stage of action. Our own Prince Consort had cherished the ideal of German unity long before the advent of the Iron Chancellor. Bismarck gave a new impetus to the forces making for unity, and also, a new direction. But for the influence of his masterful personality, Germany might have evolved her unity on more liberal lines. He preferred to build up the empire by blood and iron, and left to Europe as a "damocles hereditas" the Armed Peace, or, as our author prefers to call it the Armed Fear. Mr. Perris is both repelled by and attracted to Bismarck. His sketch of this titanic figure is etched with skill and power; the narrative of his career glows and throbs with life. A more ruthless man never guided the destinies of a great country. His deliberate quarrel, first with Denmark, then with Austria, his falsification of the Ems telegram with the object of precipitating the war with France, his inspired articles in his weekly Press for the purpose of poisoning public opinion, his long feud with the liberal-minded Crown Prince, afterwards the Emperor Frederick, his resentment of what he regarded as the sentimentalism of Queen Victoria and her daughter, the Crown Princess, because they humanely endeavored to prevent the bombardment of Paris; his arrogant demeanor to the present Emperor when he ascended the throne; his abrupt dismissal and swift fall from the dizzy eminence where he had controlled the destinies of Europe are described in this book with verve and power. With all his statecraft Bismarck had no conception of the value of colonies to a country. Germany's expansion overseas did not appeal to him, and he deliberately discouraged France to embark on her adventure in Tunis with the object of weakening her in Europe.

With sure insight, Mr. Perris traces the effects of Bismarck's immortal triumphs on German idealism and German liberalism. The people idealism, so charming a trait in the old German character, became debased and materialized; German Liberalism lost its soul, and with this loss went all its capacity for action. Then arose the led Peril, which Bismarck's State Socialism, his National Insurance and Pension Laws utterly failed to conjure away. To-day one-third of the electors in Germany vote Socialist. Of the present Emperor, Mr. Perris gives a just, sympathetic, and discerning portrait. He finds in him a curious blend of Modernism and Medievalism. William II. at one time seemed anxious to convey to the world that his fable was omniscience. With years have come more wisdom and less exuberance. He is unquestionably a great King, which is not quite the same thing as a great man. With his English blood he imbued a love of the sea, and he was the pioneer, he may even be said to have been the creator, of the German Navy. On Anglo-German rivalry Mr. Perris writes with a refreshing absence of prejudice. It is curious to recall that as recently as 1897 Mr. Chamberlain threw out the suggestion of "a new Triple Alliance between the Teutonic race and the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon race." To the altered national temper Mr. Chamberlain, a few years later, gave unhappy expression. Soon came commercial and naval rivalry. What were the roots of the mutual jealousy?

Fear, of course. Fear on the part of England of an unprecedented competition both in commerce and in armaments. On the part of Germany, fear of a kindred race, an old friend turned enemy, one not content with possessing a quarter of the land surface of the globe, but claiming also to be "mistress of the seas," and holding the power at any moment to sweep away every German ship, and to seize every German colony. In spite of the imposing facade she presents to the world, Germany has within her the seeds of trouble. How long will she be able to preserve the anomaly of a democratic suffrage and an autocratic State? The few rules and enjoy the many obey and suffer all are possessed by a morbid restlessness and fear of impending change. From end to end Germany is haunted by the ghosts of her ancient heroes, asking if the free, liberal and chivalric spirit is dead.

HOW TO CHOOSE A WIFE.

Endeavour to see the girl you intend to marry as early in the morning as possible, and note whether she is tidy, limpy, or frowny.

Notice how she treats her pets—her dog, her cat, her little sister. If she treats her mother, her father, her sisters and brothers, her pets, with consideration and love, she will probably treat you in the same way.

Beware of the girl with a sharp temper, a wagging tongue, a conveyor of scandal, lover of the sensational.

Choose a girl for virtue, for sweetness, for kindness, for nobleness of heart and feeling.

Remember that a man wants an honorable, a courageous, a patient wife. He has to live with her all his life—after that it does not matter.

When you have found a girl who is neat, trim, true, healthy, and wise, suit in and win her.

WEATHER LORE.

Many weather sayings are based upon long continued observation, hence the list we give below may be taken as a fair guide.

A blustering night brings a fair day. A fair day in winter is the mother of a storm.

A fog and a small moon bring the east wind.

Northern air brings weather fair, but at such a time always expect cold.

A red sky in the morning is the shepherd's warning. A red sky at night is the shepherd's delight.

Round-topped clouds with flattened bases carry rain in their faces.

Summer fogs mean fair weather.

A west wind and an honest man go to bed together.

Cloudy mornings turn to clear evenings.

THE WAR.

While the belligerents seem to be animated with a genuine desire that an armistice should be arranged at the earliest possible time—which is understandable on the part of Turkey, for even though she is reported to have been reinvigorated by a spirit of "excessive optimism," the fact that cannonading is being heard in her Capital is certain to prove a strong incentive—and by Bulgaria, who is finding the resistance at Chatalja a costly matter for her in men and money—the statement that Germany has "called up 130,000 reservists in the Army Corps" is news of a very serious and disquieting nature, and would seem to indicate the possibility of what all were hoping would not take place, namely, that the area of conflict would not be further extended and that it would not involve any of the greater European Powers. The situation that would be created were such a result to ensue would probably lead to an unspeakable disaster—would, in fact, be almost a reversion to a state of barbarism into which it was thought impossible that Europe could lapse. As stated, however, the talk of mobilisation in Austria and Russia, and even the actual calling up of the reservists in Germany may be nothing more than a piece of bluff shrewdly calculated to be the best means available at present for confining the conflict within certain well-defined limits and to prevent the bellicose spirit of at least one of the victorious Allies from becoming a menace. Let us hope that it is that and nothing more.

It is indeed much too soon for Serbia or any of the other countries opposed to Turkey to be expressing her intentions regarding her future aggrandisement at the expense of her foes; and such talk or rumours of such talk should not be taken too seriously. It surely is deplorable enough that so large an area of country and so many peoples should be actually engaged in a tremendous struggle without the threat being made by others of being involved in it. To say the least of it, such talk and such preparation even though merely "bluff" is surely inopportune. Small states, even without the tremendous incentive that the flush of victory never fails to give, have been known before now to face great odds and strike out against what they considered an injustice. All the more readily have they been inclined to do so when having good reason to believe that vast resources of men and money may be at their disposal. So might it very easily be in the case of Serbia in her incipient dispute with Austria. She knows or she believes that she may rely upon Russia, which country, whatever her loss of prestige may have been in her recent conflict with Japan is still great in men and money—two very important factors in warfare; and, therefore, though it is hardly conceivable that such a terrible calamity might occur, still it is by no means improbable in the circumstances. All that one can hope for is that the horrors of such an upheaval will be realised and that wisdom will so prevail as to strangle at their birth the thoughts of barbarity resulting from insensate pride and folly. To the vast majority of people of all nations war is monstrous, yet so susceptible apparently are nations in their relations with each other that scarcely a month passes but one or more countries are on the verge of precipitating themselves blindly into such barbarity. Diplomacy apparently is a sensitive tool, and it is regrettable that by some means or other this ultra-sensitive instrument should not be curbed by the good sense of the peoples at large. It has been before now seriously stated that a good method of averting war would be for the nations involved to insist upon those actually responsible for the outbreak being placed in the forefront of the conflict. It sounds Quixotic, but it might possibly be an excellent deterrent. Pride and envy are generally the most potent factors of strife among nations as among individuals; and such imperfections are not likely to be completely eradicated by so many thousands of men blazing away at each other with deadly armaments—in these days, frequently at a distance of several miles from one another. The whole affair is nothing more nor less than barbarism, sanguinary madness; and how those that guide the affairs of nations can speak of wisdom when their method of settling their differences is that of the savage it is difficult to comprehend. The pacific spirit of arbitration needs not only to be better understood but requires also that it should be adopted. There are more than enough "pourparlers" and not nearly enough genuine desire for pacific settlements. All this may seem the veriest altruism, but if true progress is to be made, if happiness is to be attained, if universal peace is realisable and not a chimera for which good men and women will ever sigh for in vain, surely it is to be hoped that arbitration will be taken more seriously, and a more genuine desire for reason instead of blood prevail. Perhaps it is much to expect while the world remains parcelled out as at present, and it is too much to expect those "who have" to hand out to "those who haven't." There is, however, a way in which the beneficence of arbitration could be made to prevail—an imperfect one doubtless—but still a very efficacious one, namely, an Anglo-American union—a close federation between the British Empire and America. No combination on earth could successfully oppose it or even attempt it, even if anything approaching such a combination could be realised. Such a union, particularly when backed by the goodwill of France and Russia, could decree that peace should reign throughout the universe.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

On the back page of this issue will be found some interesting news items.

H.M.S. Cadmus arrived at Shanghai yesterday.

Sir Francis Pigott has recovered from his recent operation for appendicitis and is now out of hospital.

It is reported that the vacancy caused by the retirement of Dr. J. M. Atkinson, Principal Civil Medical Officer, will be filled up by an appointment from another Colony.

We are informed that performances are to be given at the Theatre Royal on December 13th and 14th in aid of local charities by a number of well-known local artists. The place to be staged is "The Boatman's Boy," an amusing little comedy in one act by W. W. Jacobs. This will be preceded by a variety entertainment entirely new to Hongkong. Booking opens at Morrison's to-morrow. On the 21st of Dec. 19 and 21, Oscar Wilde's comedy, "A Woman of No Rest," will be performed at the Theatre. The proceeds from the performance, as will be seen from our advertising columns, are to be given to certain local charities. The booking is also in the hands of Messrs. Moutrie.

THE VOLUNTEER CAMP.

Work at Fanning.

Interesting Field Day.

The Volunteers brought an interesting and very enjoyable ten days' work in camp at Fanning to a conclusion yesterday with a field day in which they were opposed to a force consisting of the Hongkong Veteran Reserve and the Scouts Company.

From every point of view this year's camp can be regarded as highly successful. It was delightfully situated, the health of all the men was remarkably good, and the companies were able to carry out their work on ground which is typical of the country in which they would be required to operate should their services ever be required in the defence of the Colony.

The site chosen was a small plateau on the top of one of the smaller peaks of the range which rises directly at the back of Fanning station, its elevation ensuring a pure water supply, its bracing air, and comparative immunity from the mosquito which infest the paddy fields below. These advantages were amply compensated for the inconveniences caused by the necessity of transporting the camp furniture a distance of almost half a mile up the narrow path which afforded the only means of access. Naturally at such an elevation the nights were very cool, but the bracing air had a remarkably good effect on the health of the men, the only case of sickness being among one of the Service men who accompanied the Volunteers as instructors, who suffered from a slight attack of fever.

During the week the howitzers and ten pounders fired each day at varying ranges with live shell from the plain in the vicinity of the railway line, between a mile and two miles from camp, at targets on the hills consisting for the most part of redoubts and other defences constructed by the Engineer Company, who were also responsible for the lighting of the camp by a system of incandescent petroleum lamps and a telephone system connecting with the line from the Fanning golf house to Hongkong. Unfortunately a fault in the telephone Company's line near Tsimshui put this out of action for some time. In conjunction with the howitzer battery and the Engineers did some useful work. As is well known these guns are fired from concealed positions, the fire being directed by officers from a distant elevation commanding the targets, this necessitating some quick and efficient form of signalling. This the field telephones of the Engineer Company provided.

The maxim gun companies also carried out a very useful programme of work, and put in some excellent practice. On Saturday the ten pounders, maxims and howitzers carried out combined practice which was watched and commented on by H.E. Sir Henry May, Colonel St. John, the officer in command of the Force in the Colony, and other staff officers. Sir Henry May, with Captain Taylor, his A.D.C., stayed in camp on Saturday night, and accompanied the Volunteers on the field day which commenced early on Sunday morning.

The conditions pertaining in the camp were much more practical than in the old days when it was held nearer home and was more of a pleasant holiday under picnic conditions, but every care was taken by those in charge to ensure the comfort of the men.

The Y.M.C.A. tent, well stocked with papers and periodicals and writing materials, was well patronised; and the messenger and mail service to and from Hongkong in connection with it was found a great convenience.

The numbers in camp varied each day, but the average was probably between eighty and ninety. On Saturday the figure rose to 121. Major D. Macdonald was in command, and the other officers present were Captain Skirshaw, Staff Officer, Captain M. S. Northcote, Captain J. H. W. Armstrong, Captain G. G. Wood, Captain G. P. Lammeret, Lieut. W. Russell, Lieut. L. C. Rees, and Lieut. Hall.

THE FIELD DAY.

With the Defenders.

(By Our Special War Correspondent with the Hongkong Volunteers.)

Sunday's field day provided the forces with very useful and instructive work. The general idea was that the Commandant of the Volunteer forces had received information of a contemplated attack by the Scouts and Reserves upon his transport conveying supplies to the camp by the Shau-tai-kok branch railway from the coast. The attacking force, moving from the direction of Tai-po, was to endeavour to blow up two bridges on this railway, which the Volunteers had to guard. The men were advised to turn in on Saturday night with their clothes on, in readiness for an early start, and at 3 a.m. on Sunday, in bright moonlight, the Scouts and outposts of the Volunteers set out across the paddy fields for the ridges of hills guarding the passes, on the Hongkong side of the line, through which the attacking force would have to come. The ground was exceedingly rough, and the parties which followed at about 4.00 with the two ten-pound mountain guns, had exceedingly hard work to get them into position. By five o'clock the Scouts on the left flank, under Lieut. Hall, had taken up a position on the top of a high hill overlooking the attacking force's main line of advance, and soon after six o'clock their scouts and outposts were dispersed advancing through the passes. This information was signalled to the main body, and it was not long before firing, both by the main body and the Scouts on the flanks, became general. Most of the Scouts had taken up positions on the hills, while the two main bodies were held by the ten pounders, which were well screened by trees. Those guns were in command of Capt. Lammeret and Lieut. Rees respectively, while Capt. Northcote directed the main body who were supposed to be backed up by the howitzers.

The Volunteers were excellently posted, their positions being in every direction strong ones, and they were well served by their outposts. Almost every move of the attacking force was seen early and of the attacking force was not able to penetrate the Volunteers' line as any one point. The nature of the ground chosen by the attack was not such that they had much cover, and they were exposed to heavy artillery and rifle fire at almost every point. Many of their men, too, exposed themselves needlessly, and for this reason were ruled out by the umpires. When the cease fire sounded soon after eleven o'clock not a single man had penetrated the Volunteers' line. The Volunteers were awarded an easy victory by the umpires.

H.E. Sir Henry May, with his A.D.C., accompanied the advance party of the Volunteers which started from camp at 3 o'clock, and was an interesting spectator.

With the Attacking Forces.

(By Our Special War Correspondent with the Hongkong Volunteer Reserves.)

The Hongkong Volunteer Reserves had a very instructive week-end training in tactics—a training and a lesson to teach them how not to do things. A start was made from Kowloon Station at ten o'clock on Saturday night, and the Reserves proceeded to "The Hill" where, after a gallant but vain attempt to reach a few hours sleep, they left Tai Po at 6 a.m. in what purported to be an armoured train, to find their opponents. The Reserves, 33 strong, detrained at Sha-Lo-Tung, a remote place along the line between Tai Po and Fan Ling and set off for the object of their attack. Their object was to cut the Shau-tai-kok railway, by which the Reds obtained their supplies.

Barly had the Reserves set out across paddy fields to commence the fire on the hill, then two opposing scouts, for reasons best known to themselves, opened fire at a range of about three quarters of a mile, so that even had they been using ball cartridges, the Reserves were still perfectly safe. But the fact that the Scouts had opened fire showed the advancing force the necessity of being wary, and immediate advantage was taken of the simple cover which the country offered. The top of the hill was gained in good time, but still under the fire of the two opposing scouts, who were able to get their presence on the skyline. An inexpressible halt was then made by the Reserves in a gap leading to a valley, and scouts were sent out. It was not long before the Scouts had taken possession of the hills overlooking the valley. The position was hopeless from the first, and they were in but little doubt as to the result. A company of Volunteer Scouts, some 40 strong, under the command of Capt. C. H. Rees, who probably were able to get away from the hill, were then sent out. Half-way through the valley an umpire positioned himself, and the Reserves then had been subjected to gun and rifle fire from the hills on either side, and they had had but poor cover. A brief halt, however, they pushed on, for it was not intended to spoil the day's manoeuvres for the mere reason that one side had been annihilated. Further on the Reserves got better cover, and rounding a bend, they were able to get a good "pot" at a group of men who were affording good hiding by undergrowth and scrub. An umpire gave the advantage of this "scrap" to the Reserves, who took a number of prisoners, the "cease fire" line stopped the advance of the Blue Army and a message was then made to the Scouts on the way to the branch railway line, and on the way His Excellency the Governor, who was walking by himself across the fields, fell in with the returning men, and at Fan Ling station a good meal awaited the hungry Reserves, and a start was made for home afterwards, none the worse for the hard and strenuous exercise during the morning. Mr. Wakeman (President) was in charge of the Reserves, with Mr. Carr, Dr. Egan, Jones, Capt. Rees, and Mr. Thornhill as sectional commanders.

It is only on such occasions as this that an opportunity is afforded of teaching men tactics, and yesterday's manoeuvres showed how necessary it is that more experience should be gained by both officers and men in this the most important part of military training.

MURDERER EXECUTED THIS MORNING.

The man Wu Hoo, who was condemned to death at the last Criminal Sessions for murder in connection with the Yau-mai-bong outrage, was executed this morning at five o'clock at Victoria goal.

The impact on the body was held at the Macao railway station by Mr. H. A. Heine, P. H. Murray, and Dr. Harvey. Formal evidence was taken, and the verdict was returned, namely, "Guilty of the murder caused by hanging following the due course of the law."

THE POPULAY MURDER.

Two Men Charged.

Before Mr. H. A. Heine today at the Magistrate's Court two men were charged with the murder of the London fireman, named John, who was found with his head severed from his body at Pukkiang last week. When asked to plead, the first man said he was guilty, and the second pleaded not guilty. The first man said he was going to kill the London fireman, and when aaked again and said he did not do it. The Magistrate said he would take a plea of not guilty, and the case was adjourned to the next day for further evidence.

CIVIL SERVICE v. POLICE.

At Happy Valley on Saturday, the Police suffered defeat by 78 runs and 2 wickets.</

THE WAR.THE BULGARIANS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)
LONDON, Nov. 24.

A message from Sofia says that the Bulgarians are confident that the Turks will be forced to yield ultimately. The official organ Min states: "The advance on Constantinople is stayed because we do not desire to interfere with the complicated European interests. If the Turks refuse to understand this and wish to retain Constantinople and the Khalifate they must make all the concessions demanded. Otherwise our aim will be to expel the Turks from Europe."

RUSSIA AND AUSTRIA
MOBILISING.

Dangerous "Bluffing."

The Austrian and German newspapers have been full of details concerning the mobilisation of Russia and Austria. The opinion in Berlin is that both are bluffing, as the prospects of a peaceful settlement of the Austro-Serbian conflict are regarded as being much improved. A Prague newspaper asserts that Germany has called up 130,000 Reservists in the Army Corps.

KAISER ASKED TO MEDIATE.

The correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung at Vienna states that the Kaiser has been asked to mediate between Austria and Russia.

DEPLORABLE STATE OF ADRIANOPLE.

A message from Sofia says that the Turks at Adrianople heavily cannonaded the Bulgarian entrenchments on Friday night and Saturday. Deserters report that the garrison has been restricted to one crust of bread each for three days.

BULGARIANS RAVAGE
TURKISH VILLAGES.

A report from Salonika, despatched on the 16th inst. by an indirect route, says that the Bulgarians on route to Salonika ravaged Turkish villages mercilessly. Immediately they entered Salonika they began to pillage systematically. A continuous fusillade was kept up on the 10th and 11th between the allied troops and the Christian inhabitants.

BRITISH STOKER WOUNDED.

There were several casualties, including a stoker from H.M.S. Medea, who was in a pinnace alongside the ship. The Consul's protests to the Greek authorities against the house-breaking was fruitless, as was also a protest against an anti-Jewish outbreak by the Greek soldiery. The relations between Greek and Bulgarian troops are most strained.

GREEK CAVALRY SUCCESS.

A telegram from Athens says that the Crown Prince telegraphed from Florina that after the battle on Wednesday the Greek cavalry pursued the enemy and took the defiles of Ploedier together with 20 guns. Rain and snow fell alternately. The pursuit continues.

OPERATIONS RESUMED AT SKUTARI.

A message from Rieka says that the operations at Skutari were resumed owing to the news that Turkey had rejected the peace terms.

THE RED CROSS SOCIETY
COMBATING CHOLERA.

The British Red Cross Society are sending to Constantinople a special cholera section under an Indian officer experienced in cholera.

PRESS CORRESPONDENTS
RAVAGING IT.

A message from Constantinople says that extraordinary precautions are being taken to prevent Press correspondents visiting the lines. Gendarmes hunting them down. Most of the correspondents are wearing the fez, hoping to be taken for Turkish officers.

BY TELEGRAPH.

AUSTRIA'S MOBILISATION
"GROUNDLESS."

LATER.

A semi-official telegram from Vienna states that the reports of the extensive Austrian military preparations are greatly exaggerated, as all that is being done is to bring certain units to peace strength as a precaution. Reports of mobilisation are groundless.

TURKS MORALE IMPROVING.

A telegram from Constantinople states that the Turkish troops' morale has greatly improved, owing to the arrival of reinforcements at Eski and the order which has been restored out of the chaos which prevailed after the battle of Luleburgas.

BULGARIA BELIEVED TO BE SATISFIED.

It is thought probable that the Bulgarians, having occupied all the territory that they intend holding, they will now leave the Turks to take the initiative.

The Turks are reinforcing at Gallipoli in anticipation of an attack from the Dardanelles.

ANOTHER SERBIAN VICTORY.

A telegram from Reuter's Belgrade correspondent states that the Serbians captured Ochrida without any resistance.

MORE TURKISH PRISONERS.

The Greeks engaged with some Turkish troops escaping from Monastir, and after a short fight took 1200 prisoners and captured 19 guns.

BULGARIANS SUFFERING FROM CHOLERA.

A telegram from Constantinople states that there is no fighting at Chatalja. The Bulgarians, who were suffering severely from cholera, retired some kilometres to the rear.

AT CHATALJA.

A telegram from Sofia states that two Turkish battalions at five o'clock yesterday morning attacked certain Bulgarian positions at Chatalja, but were repulsed with considerable loss. Otherwise there was no fighting yesterday.

FOOD SUPPLIES.

At the request of the Serbians, Greece has ordered steamers with food supplies to the Adriatic coast for the Serbian troops.

TURKISH GUNBOAT SUNK.

A telegram from Athens states that the Greek torpedo destroyer torpedoed and sank a Turkish gunboat in the harbour of Livalik, 66 miles north of Smyrna. The Turkish crew abandoned the gunboat on the approach of the torpedo.

AUSTRIAN SECRECY.

A telegram from Vienna states that the Press has been forbidden to publish reports of military measures taking place by the Monarchy, and telegrams are subject to being censored.

THE SHAMEEN MURDER.

Point of Law Argued.

A Question of Jurisdiction.

Sitting in Original Jurisdiction this morning their Lordships the Chief Justice and Justice Judges heard an interesting argument on a point of law raised by Mr. F. C. Jenkin, counsel for the defence in the case in which a sepo named Jumbha was found guilty last week in the same court, of the murder of a native officer of his regiment at the Shameen, Canton. Mr. Jenkin's submission was that the Supreme Court of Hongkong had no jurisdiction to try the prisoner in as much as the offence was committed within the empire of China, and prisoner was a foreigner.

Mr. Jenkin was instructed by Mr. E. A. Gardiner, the Attorney-General, Mr. J. A. S. Bucknill, K.C., conducted the prosecution for the Crown.

Mr. Jenkin said the point reserved by the Chief Justice was whether the Attorney-General had sufficiently proved that this point had jurisdiction over prisoner for an offence committed in Canton, in the empire of China. For the purpose of proving that the Court had jurisdiction the Attorney-General referred to and relied upon the Chinese and Koru Order in Council, 1904, which recited that "by treaty, usage or otherwise, or other lawful means His Majesty the King has jurisdiction within the Empire of China."

The Attorney-General referred in particular to section 3, which defined the term British subject, and section 50, which said in what way a British subject accused of an offence might be tried before the Courts of this Colony. Further than that the Attorney-General had not gone. He had said there was no necessity to prove the treaty and that the mere fact of this Order in Council was sufficient proof that this Court had jurisdiction to try this offence. His submission was that the Attorney-General was wrong and that this Order in Council and the Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1890, merely regulated the exercise of jurisdiction by His Majesty whether by treaty or by usage, and that the Court, particularly in criminal jurisdiction, must be satisfied beyond doubt of its jurisdiction to try an offence committed by a man who was prima facie a foreigner, beyond the dominions of His Majesty.

The Justice Judge asked if the Shameen was not part of the dominions of the King? He believed it was a British concession. Were not leases granted by the Crown in the Shameen?

Mr. Jenkin said he could not answer that.

The Justice Judge observed that the Acting Consul-General said in his evidence that jurisdiction over the Shameen was the same as it was over all other parts of China.

The Chief Justice said he was not satisfied.

The Attorney-General said he was not satisfied.

THE SHAMEN MURDER

The Police Judge: In the Shameng has the Consul jurisdiction over a native of China? In the Shameng I think he has not.The Attorney-General: All he said was that it was extra-territorial exactly the same as exercised in the rest of China by the Supreme Court.Mr. Jenkin, continuing, said the courts had prima facie no jurisdiction over foreigners beyond His Majesty's domi-nions, and a general allegation of jurisdiction, fortified merely by an Order in Council, was not sufficient towarrant the court exercising jurisdiction in such a case. It was necessary for the Crown to prove that the treaty was so worded that this Court had jurisdiction over a foreigner in any part of China and in any circumstances.

Mr. Jenkin then dealt with the question of the definition of "foreigner" in the Order in Council, pointing out that in the Order in Council, "foreigner" was defined as a person who was not a subject of His Majesty.Further, he said, this Court must know, ex officio, whether or not the Government which at present existed in China had been recognised by the Imperial Parliament.

The Chief Justice said there were plenty of authorities to show that a constitutional change did not affect a treaty.

Mr. Jenkin submitted that such a change did effect some treaties and that this was one of them. He further contended that the more recent of the preamble of a treaty was no evidence of the existence of a treaty, and of a treaty which gave jurisdiction over a foreigner in a foreign country. The treaty mustbe read, but the Crown could not do that now, as the case was closed. The Crown had failed to prove the treaty and had failed to prove that the Court had jurisdiction in this case. Mr. Jenkin intimated that he had a further point to argue later.The Attorney-General characterised Mr. Jenkin's argument as a preposterous one, for several reasons. His conten-tion seemed to be that the Court had to go behind the Order in Council, and if they carried his friend's argument to its logical conclusion it might also be contended that the credentials of the plenipotentiaries who negotiated the treaty were in order, and that the noblemen negotiating the treaty were in fact the holders of their titles. In other wordsit would reduce proceedings before their Lordships to a perfect farce. The Order in Council was law, and in fact con-ferred jurisdiction. What treaty the Order in Council rested upon he was unable to say, but probably there were half a dozen. It seemed extraordinarythat the Crown should have to produce, to bolster up an Order in Council, the grounds behind the Order in Council.If Mr. Jenkin was correct, before any prosecution in any court in China or any Consular Court, could be taken the treaty would have to be proved.

Their Lordships reserved judgment.

HONGKONG CHESS CLUB.

A meeting of the above Club was held at the office of the Hon. Mr. H. E.
Pollock, K.C., on Thursday last, the 21st instant.

Mr. Pollock took the chair, and there were also present Mr. H. M. Bato, Mr. D.

E. Carvalho, Mr. F. E. Carvalho, Mr. E.

A. Dastur, Mr. P. A. Roazari, Mr. S. D.

Setna, and Mr. A. Silva Netto.

Mr. Roazari laid upon the table a statement by the Hon. Treasurer, Mr.M. J. Danenberg, showing a credit balance of $195 84.It was decided that, subject to the approval of the City Hall Committee, (sinceobtained) the Club should continue to hold its meetings on Mondays and Thursdays at 8.15 p.m., and that every Thursday should be considered a match day, and thatfor the purpose of testing the capabilities of the various players, the Secretary should draw by lot the membersof the Club against one another for a one-game match, any player not taking up to be scratched.It was also decided that all the present members of the Club, except Mr. J. X. Batalla, and Mr. Setna junior(who was elected as a new member), should be considered as A class, and should play level with one another. Mr. H. O. Paulsenwho was elected as a new member, was also placed in the A class. It was decided that Mr. Batalla and Mr. Setna junior should receive the odds of a knight. Itwas further resolved to try the experiment of limiting players to a time-limit of 3 minutes for each move.It was decided that the shield, which was offered by the chairman for an international match, and which was not competed for, owing to the difficulty of getting up sides, should be offered for an international competition, with terms of five a side to be held in January, the chairman to revise the previous conditions accordingly.

The Chairman was then re-elected

President, and Mr. M. J. Danenberg, Hon.

Treasurer. Mr. D. E. Carvalho was elected

Hon. Secretary and the following additional gentlemen were elected to the Committee:

Mr. H. M. Bato, Mr. E. A. Dastur, and

Mr. P. A. Roazari.

It was decided that the annual subscription should continue at two dollars, without any increase.
